Jo's Notebook

We are asking you to do two important things this week. One of them is to take time to read the editorial on page two of this week's issue.

The other is to make no other plans, none at all for Sunday, July 7th from two until five p. m. You must attend the formal opening of the beautiful, new Holiday Inn. Besides adding welcome to Fulton's newest industry, you'll get freshments, favors and a chance to visit with Princess Nelda Clements, Miss Holiday Inn of all time.

Don't ask me why this sudden spurt of attention for the age and sentimentality of newspaper publishing in the twin cities. I only know that the Fulton County News had been published by some mighty fine editors, before we came here nearly 21 years ago.

But who cares how old a newspaper is, or what and who owned it in the past, or in the present. What happens today is news; what happened yesterday is history. What happens tomorrow is the important consideration . . . and that's exactly how we project our goals, to a better community and a more peaceful life for all of us.

And please pardon us if we don't capitalize the name of our newspaper in big, tall letters everytime we mention it; the fulton news would only be so much shelving paper if we spent as much time as some people capitalizing on a name they inherited.

Not that it matters, but Paul and I have the dubious distinction of having the longest, continuous, uninterrupted record of newspaper publishing of any other editors and publishers in the twin city area.

We came here in April 1947; The Fulton Daily Leader was purchased by the Williams family in 1948; the present editors of that newspaper came here months after that. The Williams family lives in Paris, Tenn.

So with that unvital statistic, let's move on to something that's not quite so silly to crow about.

We welcome back to our family of correspondents Mrs. Aline Williams of Fulton, Route 3, who has been out of the paper for several years now. I would imagine that our growing list of new subscribers want to enjoy our complete coverage of local and area news, so Mrs. Williams and the good folks on Route 3 want "in" too!

I'm sorry I can't write as much as a few people would like me to about the game of golf. I realize that it is an interesting and fascinating game, and a good number of people simply "flip" on the subject, but when you consider that there are less than 190 families in the twin cities who are members of the Fulton Country Club, and about 2000 families living within the city limits of the twin cities, to say nothing of the hundreds of families in the outlying areas, who wouldn't know which end of a golf club to hold and care less, we've simply got to diversify our news coverage, right smart like. Forgive, please!

We hope you like our picture coverage this week. Elmer Stewart, a real camera fan, who is maintenance supervisor for Holiday Inn, loves the business as much as we love pecking at this type-writer. He likes to write too, so it looks like you'll be getting, and enjoying, more news and pictures each week.

I don't know whether it's good or bad, but a motorist approaching Fulton from West State Line

Top Bananas Slipping Up To Big Goal

"You're treading on mighty slippery ground in this community if you don't get the banana appeals moving," Charles Fields, chairman of the Top Banana Club told a group of interested citizens at a meeting of Holiday Inn last week.

Purpose of the club is to raise local funds to finance the sixth annual event, which promises to be on the largest ever held.

Memberships to the "in" club are $100 each and already 21 persons have joined; seventeen others have pledged their support. A total of 100 members is sought.

Those members who have paid up and in good standing with the Banana fraternity are:

Fulton County Farms Get Assessment Hike

The Kentucky Department of Revenue today notified Fulton County officials that in its judgment Fulton County assessments on certain properties fall below the 100 per cent fair cash value figure required by the Kentucky Court of Appeals in its 1965 decision.

At the same time, department officials emphasized there can be no increase in the total property tax burden, because as a result of the increase, the local tax rate for all taxpayers will be reduced.

Revenue Department officials said that a 30-per cent increase on property classified as farm and residential-rural non-farm property would be necessary to comply. They added that the assessment made by the county on other property was at fair cash value.

The state officials explained that real estate sales of farm and residential-rural nonfarm property in Fulton County covering an approximate two-year period showed the increase is necessary. Residential-rural nonfarm property consists of small-acreage tracts used principally as places to live.

The amount of county, school, and other local taxing district property tax revenue is limited by law to the total amount levied in 1967 except for new property.

A hearing is scheduled for Monday, July 8, at 2 p. m., Eastern Daylight Time, Room 414, Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky. At this time, the Fulton fiscal court may present any evidence which it feels has not been given proper

Irate Wage Earners Urging DeMyer To Define Needs For Payroll Tax

Contrary to local reports that lack of attendance at the Fulton City Commission meeting when it levied a one per cent payroll tax on wage-earners was a vote of confidence, a group or more than irate citizens is today urging Mayor Gilbert DeMyer, the Fulton City Commission and City Manager Rollin Shaw to conduct a public hearing on the tax that is well publicized and clearly defined.

The request is being made by R. G. Carver, an Illinois Central Railroad employee and a resident of South Fulton, Tennessee, who says that he speaks for hundreds of other railroad employees and wage-earners who were either "on the road," or had no knowledge that a payroll tax would be levied.

In an open letter to Mayor DeMyer and the City Commission Mr. Carver stated that the new tax would cost railroad workers, most of them based in Kentucky but many living elsewhere, from $60 to $120 a year.

Annual pay of Illinois Central Railroad employees ranges from $6000 to $12,000.00.

Mr. Carver stated to the News on Wednesday that no formal organization has been formed to protest the payroll tax but that "if Mayor DeMyer would do the right thing and have a public meeting, that people know about well in advance, the room will be filled to overflowing."

Here is Mr. Carver's letter to the News, addressed to Mayor DeMyer:

Dear Jo and Paul:

We are sending this letter to you, addressed to the Mayor of Fulton, because we know that you will publish it for us.

Mayor Gilbert DeMyer
Fulton City Commission
City Manager Rollin Shaw

Dear Sirs:

Do you think you have been fair to the working people of Fulton to put a payroll tax on us when we are already paying so many other taxes that our deductions are getting larger than our take-home pay?

I want to speak for the employees of the Illinois Central Railroad who live in Fulton and South Fulton. A lot of us are on the road most of the time and use the city streets, the city parks, and other city benefits even less than the tourists who pass through the city and pay no taxes at all.

A lot of us live in South Fulton as I do. I pay taxes for my home, my automobile, my street lights, my streets and my local government. Yet I will have to pay about $75 a year just for the privilege of earning my salary in Fulton.

Don't you think that this is the worst example of taxation without representation that you ever saw. Sure you had a public hearing on the budget and we should have

Fulton Bank Adding Master Card Service

Fulton Bank became a part of MASTER CHARGE, an international credit card network, this week.

The announcement was made by M. R. Jeffers, Executive Vice-President of Fulton Bank.

Mr. Jeffers gave several reasons for the new bank service:

MASTER CHARGE is designed for necessity buying at the local level and can save both time and money for merchants and consumer.

The MASTER CHARGE card holder is part of the largest international credit card system in the world, currently over 8,250,000 card holders.

MASTER CHARGE is the most rapidly growing credit card system. June 1968 three major New York City banks announced MASTER CHARGE. MASTER CHARGE is the only major credit card system announced by any bank in New York City.

MASTER CHARGE affiliation was also recently announced by the National Bank of Commerce and Union Planters in Memphis and the First American National Bank and Commerce Union in Nashville.

MASTER CHARGE enables area merchants to offer a 30 day or revolving charge and to better compete with the large city department stores. The MASTER CHARGE

A Family Tree, Where The Fields Are Growing, Is Fun Time

When you find a bountiful family tree, out where the Fields are growing, then it's time for rejoicing and gathering and for sharing in the harvest of friendships and kin and kin.

Descendants of two of the area's pioneer settlers gathered at Holiday Inn last Saturday, June 29, for the Fields-Whitesell reunion and enjoyed lunch, an interesting program and an informal get-together. Seven states were represented at the fifth annual Fields reunion, which this year included the Whitesell family. They came from Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Florida, North Carolina, California and Georgia.

Highlighting the decorations for the reunion was the Family Tree, with vari-colored apples hanging from the branches, each color representing a different branch of the family. Name tags followed the same pattern, with each guest receiving the apple of the color designating his or her branch of the family.

Each family group was introduced following the luncheon. G. H. Dickey, of Milan, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Ples Fields, chairman of this year's committee, presided and welcomed the guests.

LT. Col. Robert Whitesell, who is spending a leave in Fulton before reporting for duty in Vietnam, was the principal speaker. He gave an interesting talk on the early days in the Purchase area, including some little known information such as the fact that this area was discovered in 1543 by a member of the DeSoto Expedition, some 64 years before Jamestown. There were no white settlers prior to 1819, the speaker said, and it was in 1828 that Nelson Fields arrived and purchased two 180-acre tracts for 50c per acre. The Whitesell family also came about 150 years ago.

Mrs. J. O. Lewis spoke briefly on ancestor hunting, serendipity, or the reward of searching for one thing and finding something much better, after which she introduced the next speaker, Mrs. T. O. Bigger of Tullahoma, Tenn., who is the great-granddaughter of Delilah Whitesell. She is the wife of an Air Force officer, mother of three children, a grandmother and a fashion model. The attractive visitor spoke on "Genealogy, and How It is Done" and told the group, "It is one of the most fascinating hobbies in the world - and one of the cheapest." She told of her experiences tracing the Ridgeway family history and closed with a clever poem entitled, "The Research Bug Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out."

Mrs. Pauline Fields White of Madison, Tenn., was recognized as the oldest member present and little Robbie Meade of Orange, Calif., was the youngest. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meade and family, who live in Orange, Calif., came from the farthest distance to the reunion.

A short business meeting was held, with next year's committee being named, as follows: Hunter Byrd, Whitesell, chairman, Mrs. Charles Reams and Mrs. Ples Fields. The date of the 1969 Fields-Whitesell Reunion was set for the last Saturday in June.

The reunion closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Those attending were: Jerry Atkins, Mrs. W. S. Atkins, Mrs. M. E. Berry, Mrs. Ben Evans, Mrs. J. O. Lewis, Mrs. Tom Mahan, Ann Fields Mahan and guest, Willard Strain of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Pickering, Mrs. R. C. Pickering, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mac Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Tay

Pore Lil Ole Weekly Newspaper Just Ain't Up To Pace Of Aging Daily, So They Say

Of all the egotistical prattle ever thrust upon an intelligent citizenry by a newspaper, none is so incredibly unbelievable as the statement made in Monday's issue of the local daily newspaper.

In the event you did not read the newspaper's editorial, (and apparently most people rarely do) one of the paper's more literate writers stated in bold, empirical language that the publication on East State Line is the eyes, the ears, the conscience, the watchdog of this community and that any other newspapers circulating in the area are just irritating nuisances to the reading public.

In dauntless rhetoric, the daily newspaper began by defending the action of the Fulton City Commission for imposing a payroll tax on individuals employed in the City of Fulton; it explained the absence of protesting individuals at the meeting as one of complete confidence in the fiscal integrity of our city officials; and concluded with the righteous, moralistic view that "people didn't attend the meeting, in our opinion (the daily newspaper's) because they knew they could learn the details of what took place by reading it... the next day."

Our reference is to the daily newspaper's pious statements that if news doesn't appear first, and only, in the local daily newspaper, it just isn't news and not worth reading or publishing later, or ever.

They indicate too, that whatever is printed in the hallowed, though many times indistinguishable pages of what they laughingly call a "free press," is apha and omega, the gospel, superceded not even by the Holy Bible.

For the record, we want to be counted among those who have confidence in the City Commissions of Fulton and South Fulton. We have enjoyed pleasant and cooperative relationships with City Managers Rollin Shaw and James Hickman. They are both dedicated public servants and assets to this community.

But to say that the lack of attendance at the Fulton City Commission meeting when it passed the payroll tax is not apathy, but complete enthusiasm for our official family is a preposterous statement of heroic proportions.

There is an old saying that goes something like "he who doth not tooth his horn, the same does not get toothed." A little bit of self-esteem is good for anybody's morale, but when such judicious self-appraisal tends to malign and undermine the sincere efforts of one's contemporaries, then we think pride reverts to stupidity.

And we'll even give them the benefit of our own view that their newspaper is getting up in years, for whatever that's worth, and that owners and publishers have come and gone.

But when it comes to agreeing with them, and we quote from their Monday's issue, that the paper (the daily) "has continued to record the history of the Fulton area and to fill a need which weekly papers could never meet," that we simply cannot do.

Maybe we can't meet the standards of the typographical errors, the horrendous reportorial inaccuracies and the word hyphenations that are a grammarian's nightmare that occur with marked regularity in the daily newspaper, but oh how we outdistance them in areas where it takes energy, initiative and community spirit to accomplish.

If memory serves us, and sometimes it doesn't, we recall that:

—it was the influence of this newspaper, in joint ownership with Radio Station WFUL that gathered together the best instincts of this community by raising $100,000.00 to keep a factory here, and even brought about the establishment of another in Tennessee.

—it was this weekly newspaper that prevailed upon Governor Edward T. Breathitt to give $65,000 for a demonstration library over a two-year period.

—it is this weekly newspaper that is working feverishly to establish a $2,000,000.00 Latin-American Friendship Center.

This is ridiculous! Who wants to crow about age, accomplishments, or sentiment. We haven't got the time!

All we want to do is grow with these twin cities.

Some of the dullest and most deadly conversations and people we have ever heard and known are those that dwell in the past and reflect in somebody's else's glory.

And there you have it! Until next week when we bring you another well-edited and sincerely published edition of the Fulton News, remember you may get some news first in other publications, but for the corrections, read our lil' ole weekly paper, won't you?

terview undertakers and view bodies of accident victims in funeral homes.

This dramatic approach has reduced teenage accidents from 300 a week to about 25. Said the judge:

"When they bring in their obits and reports, they are very chastened. It is a terribly sobering experience they have been through."

Young people need and want someone in authority to establish ground rules for good behavior. They feel somewhat "let down" when they are given more freedom than they are able to cope with.

Help young people to train themselves to become adults whose deep concern for humanity is matched by a healthy self-mastery.

SUPPOSE

Suppose, my little lady,
Your doll should break her head;
Could you make it whole by crying
'Til your eyes and nose were red?
And wouldn't it be pleasanter
To treat it as a joke
And say you're glad 'twas dolly's
And not your own that broke?

Suppose you're dressed for walking
And the rain comes pouring down;
Will it clear off any sooner
Because you scold and frown?
And wouldn't it be nicer
For you to smile than pout,
And to make sunshine in the house
When there is none without?

Suppose your task, my little man,
Is very hard to get;
Will it make it any easier
For you to sit and fret?
And wouldn't it be wiser,
Than waiting like a dunce,
To go to work in earnest
And learn the thing at once?

Supposed the world don't please you,
Nor the way some people do;
Do you think the whole creation
Will be altered just for you?
And isn't it, my boy or girl,
The wisest, bravest plan,
Whatever comes, or doesn't come,
To do the best you can?

Turning Back The Clock--

July 2, 1948

"He Aint Done Right By Nell," starring South Fulton's colorful "Marrying Squire" McDade, will be presented at the South Fulton High School auditorium on Thursday night, July 8, sponsored by the South Fulton Booster Club. Also taking part in the show will be Aldermen Milton Counce and Henry Bethel, Ed Neely, Bobby Matthews, Mac Burrow, Jones Dickerson, and Roy Nabors.

A cash register belonging to the Maynard Service Station, stolen from the premises during the night of June 18, was returned to the station yesterday by state police, who reported that it was turned over to them at Mayfield, having been found in a barn about a mile south of Mayfield. Contents, amounting to some $75, were missing.

Fulton's second horse show will be held on August 5, under the auspices of the American Legion.

The Hickman-Fulton Counties Rural Electric Co-op has named Saturday, July 17, as the date for its big 1948 annual membership meeting. It will be held in the new and spacious basement of the Cayce High School.

The chocolate in the City Drug Company might have been a goey mass of liquid if it hadn't been for the alertness of Mrs. Lera Witherspoon, an employee of Bennett's Cafe. On Tuesday night the generator of the ice cream case burned out, giving out a lot of smoke. Mrs. Weatherspoon did not visit with the generator, but called the owners to the scene post-haste. No damage to the stock.

An ordinance, passed by the City Council at a call meeting on Monday night, signifies the intention of that body to extend the corporate limits of the city to include the Memorial Football Stadium and the Fulton Ice Company plant on the northwest side of town. The move resulted from requests made by property owners to incorporate the area so they may receive the benefits of fire protection and other services offered by the city.

One of the summer's most beautiful weddings was impressively solemnized Saturday, June 26, in the First Baptist Church, when Betty Sue Houston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. FRANK GILL SLAUGHTER (Feb. 25, 1908- ), American novelist, writes "I was born in Washington, D. C., but when I was about five years old, my family moved to the old home on a farm about twelve miles North of Oxford, North Carolina, in the Piedmont section, where we raised tobacco and corn. My father was a rural mail carrier, operating several farms, a sawmill, and some other enterprises. Since I was rather small to walk three miles each way to a country school, my mother taught me until I was ready for the sixth grade, which I entered at the age of nine. I was always studious and an omnivorous reader, traits which have stood me in very good stead as a writer of historical novels, where much research is necessary. Even today, I find that I enjoy the research for my novels more than any other part of my work."

"At fourteen, I graduated as valedictorian from the Oxford High School and at eighteen magna cum laude from Duke University, being a member of Phi Beta Kappa at seventeen. At twenty-two, I received my M. D. from Johns Hopkins Medical School and spent four years in surgical training at the Jefferson Hospital, Roanoke, Virginia. There I met Jane Mundy. We were married in June 1933 and have two sons, Frank, Jr., and Randolph Mundy. In 1934 I came to Florida to practice surgery and was associated with a group clinic until I entered the army as major M. C. in July 1942. Promoted to Lt. Col. in March, 1944, I served at Camp Kilmer, N. J. and on a hospital ship out of Los Angeles. In 1938 I became a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and in 1940 was certified as a Specialist in Surgery by the American Board of Surgery."

"I began writing as a hobby in 1935 and wrote 250,000 words a year for five years, earning $12, roughly five cents a week. My first novel, THAT NONE SHOULD DIE, was published in 1941 and has been translated into ten foreign languages, as have most of my other books, SPENCER BRADY, M. D. followed, then AIR SURGEON, BATTLE SURGEON and A TOUCH OF GLORY, written while in military service. While studying surgery of the Civil War, I became interested in that period and wrote IN A DARK GARDEN, a world best seller, now in its second million. At this time I gave up medical practice to write and lecture. There followed: THE GOLDEN ISLE, SANGAREE, DIVINE MISTRESS, THE STUBBORN HEART, and FORT EVERGLADES; I then turned my attention to the Biblical period with a novel about St. Luke titled THE ROAD TO BITHYNIA; EAST SIDE GENERAL, a modern day novel of a New York Hospital; THE GALILEANS, a novel of Mary Magdalene; and STORM HAVEN, another Civil War novel laid in Florida. In the non-fiction field I have published THE NEW SCIENCE OF SURGERY, MEDICINE FOR MODERNS, and IMMORTAL MAGYAR, a biography of Semmelweis, conqueror of child-bed fever."

"I live in Jacksonville, Fla., and work at home in one of its suburbs near the St. Johns River. I am an elder in the Riverside Presbyterian Church. Summers I live on Lake Geneva in Keystone Heights, Fla. In addition to publishing a novel a year, I write articles, do radio broadcasting, serve on various boards, and do some magazine fiction. My two Biblical novels are part of a long-range series that will number four or more. I also write a weekly historical article for FLORIDA SUNTIME and experiment with plays, none of which have been produced; plus boating, camping and water skiing."

"Writing, I think, is one of the most satisfying occupations one could have. Through it I reach millions of people, since many of my books have a larger sale in foreign countries than they do in America. I now have ten foreign publishers in addition to my American publishers."

Letter From Washington

by
Mrs. John Sherman Cooper

My husband went to his class reunion at Yale, and I am glad he took me along because it was a very impressive experience. There are class reunions every five years, so the classes from 1903 to 1968 were represented, and the beautiful old campus was filled with people from every generation. I was happy that John was chosen as speaker for his class's first night.

The next day we visited the Yale University Art Gallery, which is over a century and a quarter old—in fact one of the oldest in the Western World. Its collections, which began in 1832 with the purchase of the works of Colonel John Trumbull, the American patriot painter, now include representations from Far Eastern, Italian Renaissance, American, African, Pre-Columbian and contemporary art. One of Yale's important collections is that of early American silver. It is exceptional in its size in the number of silversmiths represented and the quality of its craftsmanship. We also visited Yale's Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library, which is one of the most beautiful modern buildings I have ever seen. It is made of Vermont marble and granite, bronze, and glass and designed by Gordon Bunshaft. Instead of windows, there are translucent marble panes, so that in the inside of the library, the light from out-of-doors changes according to the sun. They have a fantastic collection of books, and on exhibition in the cases are the Gutenberg Bible, the first Western book printed from movable type, Audubon's birds of America, and a great variety of manuscripts and first editions.

That night we were entertained by the moving pictures of the Grand National Steeplechase in England. Tim Durant, a member of the Class of '23, decided at the age of 66 that he wanted to fulfill his life's desire and ride in that most difficult of steeplechases. He flew to England, and, in sending in his application for a permit, baffled the English authorities who had turned his paper upside down and said if a man of 99 is fool enough to want to ride in this race, let him meet his maker at Beecher's Brook. Out of a field of 33, only 15 horses finished, and Tim, the "Galloping Grandfather," was 12th among the 15 that stayed the course.

The next day all of the classes assembled in the Common, a band in front of each, and marched to the pavilion, where President and Mrs. Brewster received us, each class giving a loud cheer to the Brewsters. You can imagine the different points of view of the various classes represented, but bound together by a thread of unity in their respect for their university.

The Cooper-Hart amendment to delete $227 million for construction of a thin anti-ballistic missile system from a military authorization bill was defeated 52-34 in the Senate this week by a coalition of hawkish Republicans and Democrats. Although the bill did not pass, it was a direct challenge to the Administration defense policy and for the first time really questioned the spending of the military. Reflecting the opinion of the President's scientific advisers, past arguments of the Defense Department and the most recent intelligence estimates, proponents of the amendment argued that, based on present technology, it was not yet possible to build an effective defense system against large-scale missile attack.

The only effect of building the system would be to escalate the arms race. Senators Stuart Symington and Margaret Chase Smith, who are on the Armed Services Committee, for the first time questioned the leadership of the Chairman, Senator Russell of Georgia, and although the amendment did not pass, it opened up a debate which is extremely healthy at this time because of the vast amounts of money that have been unquestioningly given to the military, when we have such need for fiscal responsibility, a need to cut unnecessary spending and to redirect funds for domestic programs.

We are coming to Kentucky on July 3. On the 4th, John will dedicate the new post office and open the new Rockefeller Headquarters in Somerset. State Representative Donald Ball of Lexington is State Chairman of the Rockefeller for President Committee, and I am the Co-Chairman. Governor Rockefeller will be in Kentucky the 9th or 10th of July, and I will stay down until after his visit. I hope to see you there.

Miss Sharon Jane Cronk And James Reed Wed In Florida

The soft glow of candlelight illuminated a nuptial scene marked by simplicity and beauty Friday evening, June seventh, when Miss Sharon Jane Cronk became the bride of Dr. James Croft Reed in an impressive ceremony at the University of Miami Westminster Chapel, Coral Gables, Florida.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Aston, Jr. Claxton, Georgia and Mr. James A. Cronk of Jacksonville, Florida. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Seldon James Reed of Fulton, Kentucky.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony, which was held at eight o'clock in the evening, was Dr. Wayne R. Johnson, associate pastor at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Miami and a classmate of Dr. Reed at the University of Miami School of Medicine.

The sanctuary of the chapel was made more lovely through the use of glowing tapers in spiral candelabra and arrangements of pink and white gladioli.

Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented by John Thomas Reed organist, brother of the groom.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire styled gown of silk organza over taffeta. The bodice was of chantilly lace with sprays of tiny seed pearls, a high scalloped neckline, and short sleeves. The skirt had a deep scalloped border of the lace. The detachable chapel train was also bordered with chantilly lace over organza. The two tiered veil of illusion was secured to an open Princess crown of seed pearls and crystals. The bride carried a traditionally styled bouquet of white sweetheart roses and a white orchid.

The maid of honor, Miss Linda Cronk, sister of the bride, wore a princess styled gown of imported pink Karate, featuring scoop neckline outlined in Venice lace. The back of the gown had a full gathered panel. The head piece was a cluster of open flowers edged in tiny seed pearls. She carried two long stemmed red roses trimmed in pink.

The bridesmaids, Miss Donna Barnhart, of Miami and Miss Marcia Sone, of Toronto, Canada, wore gowns and headpieces in the same style of the maid of honor, each carried a single long stemmed red rose trimmed in pink.

The flower girl, little Gwynne Johnson, daughter of the officiating minister, wore a floor length gown of imported pink karate trimmed with white border lace, her headpiece was similar to that of the bridesmaids.

Mathew Johnson, son of the minister, was the ring bearer, and he was attired in a black tuxedo, matching the groomsmen.

Mr. Seldon James Reed, father of the groom served as best man. The groomsmen were, Mr. Richard Cronk, brother of the bride, and Dr. Michael O'Brien, Tampa, Florida.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Aston chose a high necked beaded sleeveless dress, of turquoise polished raw silk, with dyed to match accessories. Her corsage was a lavender orchid.

The groom's mother wore a mint green alaskan costume suit featuring a beaded mandarin collar and beaded trim on jacket. Her accessories were dyed to match in hue. Her corsage was a white purple throated orchid.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Drawing Room of the Wesley Foundation of the University of Miami.

ately following the ceremony in the Drawing Room of the Wesley Foundation of the University of Miami.

The three tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom and tiny wedding bells was served from a circular table which was covered with an imported lace cloth over pink, circled with pink carnations and southern smilax. Punch and party delicacies were served from a long table draped with an ivory linen embroidered floor length cloth. An arrangement of pink baby mums centered the table with pink carnations and smilax circling the punch bowl.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jolley, Fulton, Kentucky, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bostelman Jr., Lake Alfred, Florida, Mrs. Jim Sutton, Acadia, Florida, Mrs. Clark O. Thomas, Savannah, Georgia.

For her wedding trip the bride wore a costume suit in aqua blue with white accessories, she wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Following a short wedding trip the bride will resume her education at Jackson Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, where she will receive her degree August 9, 1968 after which she will join Dr. Reed on Long Island, New York where the groom will intern at St. Albans Naval Hospital.

OBION COUNTY

Joe Martin, County Agent
Union City, Tenn.

DARK GREEN CORN

During the past few days, we have observed a remarkable improvement in color of the corn and that good dark greasy green color of the corn is a sign that the corn is taking full advantage of available moisture and fertilizer, especially the nitrogen fertilizer.

Mr. Charlie Gibson has a large field of corn on the Troy Highway that's growing so fast that it looks like its jumping in growth every day. The best looking crops in Obion County are in the Trimble-Mason Hall area.

We didn't need as much rain as we received last week for some of our crops were damaged by the excessive amount of rain. The moisture should enable farmers to finish up the planting of soybeans, and the acreage of soybeans in Obion County should reach 100,000 acres this year. Farmers are very busy now because in addition to finishing the planting of beans applying nitrogen fertilizer to corn - every acre of soybeans in Obion County needs plowing. All soybeans need plowing, even if pre-emerge chemicals were applied.

Soybean growers are beginning to apply post-emergence sprays to control weeds, and we suggest that if Tenoran is used that it be applied as a directed spray under the beans leaves. Broadleaved weeds larger than two inches will show some injury but will not be controlled. Tenoran is not very effective on grasses and is not effective under drought conditions.

CUT BEEF COSTS - USE UREA AND LIMESTONE IN CORN SILAGE

Beef producers should plan now to add urea and limestone to their corn silage at ensiling time. The increase in protein equivalent and the saving of feed will benefit the cattleman who is willing to follow recommendations.

Feed grade urea should be added at the rate of ten pounds per ton of corn green chop as it is put in the silo. This will increase the protein equivalent of the silage by about 1.3 percent assuming the green chop contains about 30 percent dry matter. Feed grade limestone should also be added at the rate of ten pounds per ton of corn green chop. Research has shown that cattle gain more efficiently on urea treated corn silage when limestone is added.

Urea should be used in silages only by the cattleman who will be careful to properly use the materials. The safest use is in upright silos and especially where silo unloaders and auger-feeders are used. There is more chance of error in horizontal silos; but even here with proper handling, the results will be rewarding.

The usual procedure in adding the materials is first to weigh several loads of silage to get a good estimate of load weights. Then uniformly spread the correct amount of materials over each load. Distribution is accomplished in the silo when forage is either blown in to the upright silo or spread and packed in the trench.

Guidelines should be followed when feeding urea-treated silages. Have them tested by a forage testing laboratory for more efficient food use.

CHEMICAL WEED CONTROL ON THE INCREASE

From all indications we will have a tremendous increase in the use of chemical herbicides to control grass and weeds in Obion County this year on corn, cotton, and soybeans. The big increase will be in the use of preemergence herbicides since a large percentage of corn has had 2,4-D applied as a postemergence spray in past years. Atrazine gave excellent results on several thousand acres of Obion County corn last year.

Since corn planting has started we have observed Obion County farmers either buying, installing on tractor, or reworking preemergence outfits. The preemergence chemical herbicides that we recommend on corn this year include: Atrazine, Simazine, Atrazine mixed with Lorox, Ramrod, Diuron,

2,4-D and EPTC.

The recommended preemergence chemicals for cotton include: Cotran, ClpC, DCPA, Karmex, Herban, Prometryne, Treflan, and Planavin.

The soybean preemergence chemicals include: Amiben DCPA, DNBP, Lerox, NPA plus ClpC, Treflan, Planavin and DNBP plus NPA.

ALFALFA AND ALFALFA WORMS GROWING

The Alfalfa acreage in Obion County has decreased greatly due to the alfalfa weevil worm but we have observed several beautiful fields of alfalfa in Obion County recently.

Mr. Ned Bigelow of Pulk Station has a new 5 acre field of alfalfa that he seeded last fall and he has about as perfect a stand as could be desired. Mr. Charlie Lat-tus has a ten acre field of new alfalfa near Crystal that looks mighty good.

The alfalfa weevil worms are beginning to eat on the alfalfa. If you have alfalfa, look at your alfalfa closely and it's time to spray when 50 percent of the alfalfa plants show signs of worms feeding on the plants.

Fulton Cools Off After Hot Weekend Of Sports Activity

by R. Paul Westpheling

The golfers have all gone back to work, Jasper Vowell is working on a way to make a bigger cup, Bud Wade has a cold from standing in the creek and Connie Connell, a bright young lawyer from Mounds, Illinois, is already practicing for next year's tournament.

Saturday, when most of the out-of-town golfers began to qualify, two golfers were tied for the lead with 73's at the end of the first eighteen holes of play. They were Bud Wade of Memphis and Charles Binford of Fulton. Last year's winner, Connie Connell brought in a 75 to be two strokes off the pace. So ended the first day of action at the Ken-Tenn. That wasn't anything spectacular.

Then came Sunday. The temperature was pushing 100 degrees, and a slight wind was blowing. Most of the people at the Fulton Country Club were pinning their hopes on Charles Binford, who could have brought that trophy back to the home club.

But, at the end of the first nine holes of play on Sunday, Charles Binford blew his chances for the top spot, by bringing in a 42. Connie Connell was in with a one under par 35 and Bud Wade carted in an even par 36. The net result of that first round of play on Sunday was that Connell had gained one stroke on Wade. Joe Inman of Colver City, Dave Barclay of Mayfield, and Jasper Vowell of Fulton, meanwhile were also making their bids for the tournament champion.

That last round of play began just like any other round in the tournament, but . . . it didn't stay that way for long. When Connell teed off of number four, he was still one stroke away from the lead. One of his partners, Blu Williams, hit a bad second shot into the creek. The tension was building.

The foursome behind Connell's contained Bud Wade, who at that point, still had possession of the lead. Number four fairway spelled disaster for Wade, and cost him the tournament. I was with the Connell foursome when the word was passed that Wade had triple-bogied that hole. Tension was again to show on Connell's face. As his caddy Max Omar said, "Connie won't blow his cool."

Meanwhile, back on the course, Jasper Vowell, Fulton's answer to Jack Nicklaus, was having his own trouble. The cups weren't big enough, because everytime he would putt, the ball would hit the lip of the cup and roll around like it was going to go in, but managed to stop un-nervingly close to the hole. Poor Jasper!

As we approached the end, Connie Connell was coming up the last hole of the tournament, like a white tornado, with a win almost assured, when the news that Bud Wade would be putting for a birdie on number eight green arrived. Once again, tension seemed to grab the tall slender man. But Wade missed that small putt so Connie Connell was the winner of the eighth annual Ken-Tenn tournament. That was the weekend that was . . . for everyone but calm, cool and collected Connie Connell.

Don't get the impression that Bud Wade came in second. That tragedy on number four was worse than anyone imagined. As I mentioned, Joe Inman, Dave Barclay and Jasper Vowell made very strong bids for the lead, but these three men finished second, third and fourth respectively. Better luck next year Bud.

Last Friday night at the Kitty League Ball Park, a crowd, estimated at seven-hundred saw the annual horse show, sponsored by the YMBC of Fulton. I talked with Nemo Williams, who told me that 154 entries had been received for all thirteen classes.

In each class, there were five winners, receiving $1,085 in prize money. The first place winner in each class received a trophy and a cash prize. The next four place winners in each class received ribbons and cash prizes.

One of the highlights of the horse show was Terry Biehlich, age seven, who, with her pony, Crickett, captured second place honors in the youngster division. Terry was born in Clarksdale, Mississippi, and, along with her very equestrian family, began riding a pony when she was 18 months old. She has ridden in horse shows in Texas, California, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma. For a girl of seven that's quite a feat.

Among Terry's other accomplishments, aside from a room full of trophies and ribbons, she has broken several ponies for her own use. Terry has had some bad spills, but always comes back with more determination to win.

BUSHART HOME!

Captain Duncan Bushart arrived home last Friday for a 10-day leave with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Glynn Bushart. He is serving in the army in Vietnam.

HARDY WINS TROPHY

David Hardy, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hardy of Fulton, has been presented a trophy by the Mid-City Baptist High School in New Orleans for having the highest scholastic average among those who had won letters in two sports. His average was 95.4. He will attend Murray State University this fall.

Connie Connell seems to relax a little bit for a News Photographer as he lines up a putt.

Lynn Newton of Fulton, who has won many a golf tournament didn't fare too well during the Ken-Tenn tournament, but he sure enjoyed playing on the manicured greens of the Fulton Country Club.

The Selection Of Cheerleaders Is Transferred To Student Body

Each girl was taught four cheers. They would then choose two of the four cheers to try out on. After the tryouts, the student body and faculty voted on six girls they believed to be best qualified. Those six girls receiving the most votes were selected as cheerleaders.

Social Security Urges Reporting Domestic Help

"Many area residents have been failing to properly report the wages of household help for social security purposes," this statement was recently made by Charles M. Whitaker, Paducah Social Security District Manager.

"Failure to correctly report wages of household employees can result in penalties and interest to the employer and loss of social security credit for the employee," added Whitaker.

Household work is covered by social security if the employee is paid as little as $50 cash wages in a calendar quarter by the employer. The employer is required to report these earnings to the Internal Revenue Service within 30 days after the end of the quarter.

The Paducah Social Security Office has a free booklet "Social Security and Your Household Employee" which gives detailed information on the proper way of reporting household work. It can be obtained by contacting the Paducah Office at 112 South 10th St. Office hours are 8:45 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., Monday through Friday, and until 7:00 p. m. on Thursday. # WELCOME HOLIDAY INN!

---The Twin Cities Newest and largest addition to our important Tourist Industry Attractions

In the past twenty years the number of automobiles "on the road" has grown at a fantastic rate ... the National highway network has mushroomed to take care of them ... vacationers and businessmen have utilized their automobiles more and more ... and tourist services in the Twin Cities of Fulton and South Fulton HAVE BECOME A MAJOR BUSINESS.

Our fine motels and restaurants constitute a large and growing "INDUSTRY", utilizing hundreds of local employees, buying local goods and services, paying local taxes and drawing additional shoppers to many local retailers.

We welcome our new HOLIDAY INN as another asset to the tourist attractiveness of the Twin Cities, just as we look forward to the opening of the new Purchase Parkway this fall, and the expansion and improvement of US 51 and US 45-E southward through Tennessee.

Let's pull together to keep our communities in the forefront as the "West Kentucky - Tennessee GATEWAY TO THE SOUTH" ... a position we have enjoyed during these past 20 years of growing automobile travel.
